Dr Pierre Nabeth graduated as a Medical Doctor, with a specialization in public health, biostatistics and epidemiology.

He started his professional life in hospital settings and in general practice, then held senior management positions in medical NGOs, and at the Pasteur Institute in Dakar, Senegal.

In 2006, he joined WHO Headquarters, to lead a team strengthening national surveillance systems. He developed guidance on Early Warning and Event-Based Surveillance, which is used as a reference document.

Since 2017, he is leading the Health Emergency Information and Risk Assessment Unit of the WHO Health Emergencies Programme in EMRO.

Dr Pierre Nabeth is also currently leading the information management pillar in the EMRO incident management support team that is coordinating the response to COVID-19.